"When two people commit to each other-and especially when they commit to communicating love to each other through the five love languages-positive change occurs."- Gary Chapman How do you communicate love? People express and receive love in different ways-whether it's quality time, words of affirmation, gifts, acts of service, or physical touch. What better relationship expert is there than Dr. Gary Chapman, author of The Five Love Languages, to show you how to effectively communicate love in a genuine, thoughtful way every day? Each day's devotion has a selection from Scripture, an insightful message about communicating love, and a prayer. Spend this year growing closer to those you love most.

I read the 5 Love Languages book written by Gary Chapman years ago. I just recently purchased another copy of that book because I lost my original. I'm re-reading the book while my husband is listening to the book on CD. I'm not sure what I expected when I ordered this devotional book, but it has certainly exceeded my expectations. The book itself is very nice. It has a leather look and feel. It doesn't look "girly" so it looks nice on your bedside table no matter if you are male or female. Prior to receiving this we were reading a devotional every night before bed together. Even though the devotions were good, they rarely touched on marriage, relationships or anything like what we need right now. The devotions in this book are so good I have actually sat down and read some of them like a regular book. They truly hit home for both spouses and in my opinion help couples understand each other better. During a difficult time in our marriage we have found this book to be extremely helpful. The devotions are about a page long but not dull or boring reads. They are informative but not difficult to understand or comprehend. Even though we are reading/listening to the 5 Love Languages at the same time separately this seems to be the glue to bring all of that together. Reading this at night before we go to bed seems to be particularly nice. It's the end of the day, work is over, chores are finished, kids are in bed & after being in a marriage/relationship for many years it's a much needed time of sharing and quiet yet thoughtful moment together. I would recommend this devotional to anyone in a marriage, long term committed relationship or even for newlyweds just starting out. This would make a great gift to a newly married couple. I have nothing negative to say about this devotional at all. I think I enjoy this more than the book to be honest. My husband seems to enjoy it as well which is really saying something because he's not a "reader" or lover of books in general. I DID NOT receive this book at a discount, for free or as a part of any program. I purchased it by choice with my own money. My reviews are my own honest opinions and thoughts.

This is a great devotional. I have an older version that my spouse and I have been using for years. I order this now to give for wedding presents. Even after years of marriage it is still good to go back and read. It is like having a live-in marriage counselor that keeps you living with God's word and keeping your faith to God and your Spouse strong.

Scripture reference, marriage related topic and prayer. He works in the LL throughout the book in different ways. The first couple of devotionals introduce the five LL.

We have thoroughly enjoyed reading this together each night. I love the practical applications throughout that give us an opportunity to put into practice what we're learning. We've been challenged and encouraged by the brief devotionals.

Wife and I are drawing closer because of the insight of this book! ...short to the point and prompts discussions.

I love Gary Chapman's books! His "The One Year Love Language Minute Devotional" is another great book. For those of us whose time is limited, this is a perfect layout. Thank you Gary Chapman and for carrying his book.

My husband and I have enjoyed reading this together each morning. Gary Chapman is an excellent writer with great advice. Love all of his books we have read so far. I love the Christian advice. This can help your marriage greatly.
