Travelling Light (Imprint Travel)

Synopsis

It's been a long time since I claimed some solitude in this blessed landscape; since I've done without life's little props. Here I have no friend, no dog, no radio, no clock, no phone, no roof, no body pollutants. The clackety-clack of the typewriter travels out into the valley and gets lost in expanses of forest and paperbark swamp. I'm the only soul around. ~ ~ For ten years Robyn Davidson has been travelling light. Across the desert, across America on a Harley-Davidson, or walking through the bush of ghosts by night. In these articles that make up Travelling Light, the bestselling author of Tracks takes us into wilds of many countries - as well as countries of the mind. ~ ~ 'A born writer.' - Daily Telegraph 'A perceptive and sensitive observer.' - Sydney Morning Herald --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

Customer Reviews

Travel writing is like art....I may not know much about it, but I know what I like. Ms. Davidson does, In My Esteemed Opinion, a great job of conveying the nuances. Desert travel is much about nuances. And you have to get down off your camel and walk about in order to see them. Not only does she do this, but she does it in a way that makes you wish you could be there to share the experience. Even the ones that aren't so fun she manages to make interesting. But she's distinctive; maybe not for everyone. I'm also a fan of James Thurber.
