use for teaching for children to help express their emotions, really great especially with current topics of gender

This poster is terrific! I teach kids with Autism and other special needs,so feelings are discussed a lot. I have had other similar posters, but this face looks so real. It is much easier for the kids to identify with. It is great for special needs, as well as other kids for discussion, vocabulary, etc.

The kids at school love to use this and it has helped a lot.

It came all wrinkled

I can hardly tell myself what the faces look like and so my students are more confused than ever looking at it!

I like the variety of emotions on the poster, but the face is kind of creepy. I picked this b/c I wanted clear display of emotions on the same face...well, it is that, but the computer generated face doesn't really appeal to many of my students.
