Synopsis

Dacey Sinnett is a young cabaret musician living in 19th century France. During the day, he entertains as a sidewalk magician in Montmartre, using his natural telepathic ability to enhance his illusions. Raised in poverty, he dreams of a vibrant life full of riches and fame. Although he's used his powers, talents, and good looks to his advantage, he has barely managed to carve a small niche for himself. His best friend, cabaret dancer, Kalet Belrose also dreams of finer things. However, as they begin to grow closer, she suggests that it's far more practical to accept their lower status in society and find happiness in simplicity. Dacey fears she may be right until he meets Marcus von Rottal, a handsome aristocrat, that promises him a chance at having all of his wildest dreams come true. Dacey is quickly swept up into a world of thievery, murder, debauchery, and vampirism. He eventually learns that you really should be careful what you wish for and seeks to find a greater purpose. But has he ventured past the point of redemption?

Customer Reviews

Great story can't wait for the next book.

Great story

I first fell in love with the oh so fabulous vampire, Dacey Sinnett when he was first introduced in "Roam", so when I heard that Dez Schwartz was giving him his own book, I jumped for joy! Honestly, I think Dacey could give Anne Rice's Lestat a run for his money.. he's THAT awesome. And so fashionable! Really, though, I love getting background stories of characters that at first may come off as mysterious... their history of why they are the way they are. I can't get enough of the worlds and characters that Dez Schwartz creates. It's clear that she has an infinite amount of ideas and a solid imagination. It's a real treat keeping up with everything she puts out, and I can't wait for the next creation.

Fantastic origin story. A vampire tale that definitely stands out.
